Session 1: Planning for Instruction

Session 1 Objectives

By the end of Session1, you will be able to

- describe how Reading Street's unit and weekly structure support teachers in addressing the CCSS and
- utilize Teacher's Edition resources to plan Reading Street instruction.

Pause and Reflect

Refer to the 5-Day Planner for one of the weeks included in your Teacher's Edition. Use the space provided below to identify which part of the literacy block you will use to address each of the four key focus areas of instruction: content knowledge, foundational skills, text-based comprehension, and writing.

Get Ready to Read

Read and Comprehend

Language Arts

Video Reflection

After watching the Planning video, use the space provided below to respond to the following reflection question.

Identify one planning resource referenced in the video that you also examined during Session 1. First summarize how the educator in the video uses this resource. Then describe how you will use it as you plan upcoming instruction.

Organizing for Instruction

Use the resources provided in your Reading Street Teacher's Edition to fill in the organizer on the following page for an upcoming week of instruction.

After  completing Session 1, fill in the following:

- Unit Big Question
- Weekly Question
- Knowledge Goals
- Amazing words
- Target Skills

After completing Session 2, begin filling in the Get Ready to Read section.

After completing Session 3, finish filling in the Get Ready to Read section and fill in the Read and Comprehend section.

After completing Session 4, fill in the Language Arts section.

After completing Session 5, respond to the small group time questions.

Language Arts Weekly Writing Product:

Respond to the following questions about small group time.

Identify one of the target skills and describe how you will address it during small group lessons.

Describe how you will address two skills from the previous week in this week's independent stations.

Navigating the Teacher's Edition

Take notes in the chart below about the unit and weekly planning pages you will use as you plan for upcoming Reading Street instruction. In the right column, add the important topic(s) from the CCSS (Content Knowledge, Foundational Skills, Text-Based Comprehension, or Writing) that are embedded or referenced on the planning page. Only fill in information for pages that were covered in the session you just completed. You will revisit this chart after each session.

Session 2: Content Knowledge

Session 2 Objectives

By the end of Session 2, you will be able to

- implement Reading Street lesson features that develop students' content knowledge and
- create a concept board to aid in students' transfer of knowledge.

Pause and Reflect

Refer to the Content Knowledge page for the unit you are currently teaching. Review the content knowledge goals for one week, and describe how they relate to the unit Big Question and the weekly main selection.

Video Reflection

After watching the Content Knowledge video, use the space provided below to respond to the following reflection questions.

How do the teachers use the Question of the Week to develop students' understanding of the unit concept?

Identify one Reading Street feature or resource—in addition to the Question of the Week—that the teachers use to support students' understanding of the concept. Describe how they incorporate this resource into instruction.

Concept Board

Use the space provided below to create a sample concept board sketch to show the instructional elements that develop content knowledge. Consider including the following:

- Unit Big Idea
- Unit Big Question
- Weekly Question
- Knowledge Goals
- Amazing Words
- Weekly Concept Map
- Text Titles

Session 3: Foundational Skills and Text-Based Comprehension

Session 3 Objectives

By the end of Session 3, you will be able to

- use Reading Street lessons to develop priority reading skills and
- implement Reading Street lesson features that support text-based comprehension.

Pause and Reflect

Refer to Focus on Common Core State Standards page in your Teacher's Edition for an upcoming week of instruction. Use the space provided below to list the priority reading skills that are included on this page. Then write a statement that summarizes how foundational skills are addressed at your grade level.

Video Reflection

After watching the Navigating the Main Selection video, use the space provided below to respond to the following reflection questions.

Identify one tool or strategy Ms. Murphy uses to ensure that all students are able to access the Main Selection text. Summarize the instructional value of this tool or strategy.

Think about students in your classroom who would benefit from the tools  and strategies that Ms. Murphy used. Are there additional Reading Street strategies or resources you have used or could use to support these students as you read the main selection? Explain.

Planning for the Multiple-Day Read

Refer to the instructional pages in your Teacher's Edition for an upcoming week of instruction as you complete the chart below.

Grade Level: _____ Unit: _____ Week: _____ Main Selection Title: _____
Summarize students' performance, so far, when applying target text-based comprehension skills and strategies.
Refer to the text complexity rubric for the main selection on the weekly tab in your Teacher's Edition. Based on the information provided under quantitative and qualitative measures, where do you anticipate your students may need additional support when reading the main selection?
Review the information provided in the Reader and Task Suggestions box. Identify any suggestions you plan to implement. Explain why.
Read through the instructional notes on the main selection lesson pages in your Teacher's Edition. Summarize one of the Access Text or Develop Vocabulary notes you will use and describe how your students will benefit.

Session 4: Writing

Session 4 Objectives

By the end of Session 4, you will be able to

- describe the purpose of the various writing tasks included in Reading Street instruction and
- effectively implement Reading Street writing tasks in the classroom.

Pause and Reflect

Look back to the weekly writing lessons for one week of instruction in your Teacher Edition and review the associated Common Core State Standards listed in the side margin notes. Identify three specific standards and describe how the corresponding lesson(s) address them. Try to include standards from multiple strands (for example, Writing, Language, and Literature). An example is provided below.

Example

Standard: Writing 4. Produce clear and coherent writing in which the development and organization are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.

(National Governors Association Center for Best Practices (NGA Center), Council of Chief State School Officers (CCSSO). 2010, 21)

Lesson: Day 2 Writing lesson focused on the organization of a formal letter

How the standard is addressed: Students consider the features of a formal letter and learn how to use t-charts and outlines to organize their thinking prior to beginning a draft.

Video Reflection Questions

After watching the Intermediate Writing Lessons: Getting Started video, use the space provided below to respond to the following reflection questions.

Describe how the teachers incorporate modeling and partner talk into the lessons.

How might you structure the writing lesson differently in your classroom? Explain.

Planning Writing Instruction

Refer to the Research and Inquiry or weekly Writing lessons for one week of instruction in your Teacher's Edition. In the chart below, briefly summarize the focus of each day's lesson. Then, identify the resources you will utilize (for example, graphic organizers, or computers with Internet access) during each day of instruction.

Session 5: Access for All

Session 5 Objectives

By the end of Session 5, you will be able to

- implement instructional features to successfully differentiate Reading Street instruction and
- support all students in accessing Reading Street curriculum.

Pause and Reflect

Review one of the small group lesson plans that utilizes Reading Street Sleuth across the three leveled groups: On-Level, Strategic Intervention, and Advanced. Use the space provided below to summarize differences between each leveled group. If you teach Kindergarten, you do not need to select lessons that utilize Reading Street Sleuth. A sample response is provided below.

Grade Level: 4 Unit: 4 Week: 4 Day: 5

Reading Street Sleuth Selection Title: Tornado Sirens—What's the Use?

	Lesson Summary	Distinguishing Features
On-Level	Students reread the text (originally read on Day 1) in partners and fill in a graphic organizer. The teacher leads a discussion about how the author builds his argument. Students discuss the validity of each reason the author provides. Students then work in partners to write a paragraph that supports or refutes the claim that tornado sirens are obsolete.	• Students reread the text in partners. • Students are prompted to discuss the validity of each reason the author provides. • Students work in pairs to write a response paragraph.
Strategic Intervention	The teacher rereads the text aloud to students as students track the print. The teacher leads a discussion about the reasons the author uses to support his argument and whether all reasons are valid. The teacher leads the group in writing a paragraph that supports or refutes the claim that tornado sirens are obsolete.	• The teacher rereads the text aloud to students. • The teacher leads discussion about the validity of each reason the author provides. • The teacher leads the group in writing a response paragraph.
Advanced	Students reread the text in partners and fill in a graphic organizer. Students review the information in their graphic organizers before participating in a discussion about the author's argument that tornado sirens are obsolete. Students discuss whether each reason is valid. Students work in partners to write a paragraph that supports or refutes the claim that tornado sirens are obsolete.	• Students participate in discussion about validity of author's argument without the teacher first walking them through how the author builds his argument.

Session 5: Access for All

Now fill in the chart below using details from one of the small group lessons in your Teacher's Edition.

Grade Level: _____ Unit: _____ Week: _____ Day: _____

Reading Street Sleuth Selection Title: _____

Video Reflection

After watching the Organizing for Small Group Instruction video, use the space provided below to respond to the following reflection question.

How does Ms. Whiting's preparation help to facilitate smooth transitions during small group time?

Organizing for Small Group Time

Use the space provided below to outline a plan for how you will organize small group time in your classroom. You may wish to incorporate ideas from Ms. Whiting's classroom, as appropriate. Be sure to consider the following:

- Number of small group lessons you will lead
- Number of Independent Stations you will include
- Where independent reading will take place
- Method for determining where students go
